STUDENT VOICE AT 'THE HOME OF THE KNIGHTS'

Volume 22 Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, Saturday, January 26, 1957 Number 12

Two Dances Approved By Council

Two formal dances will constitute Wartburg's entire on-campus dancing program for this year. A recommendation passed by the Faculty-Student Council has been approved by President C. H. Becker, Dean of Students Earnest Oppermann and Regents Chairman Walter Voecks.

Under the plan the following regulations were set up:

No dancing in housing units.

All dances, campus and off-campus, must be approved by the Activities Committee and have college supervision.

Only Wartburg students and their guests will be admitted.

Juke box dancing in the Student Union will not be allowed.

It was pointed out that all-school dances would be held in the gym, but that there would be no dancing in the gym during basketball season.

Altmenn

Retreat This P.M.

Elsewhere on the student government front, senators are meeting this afternoon in Fuchs Lounge for a special leadership retreat. According to Student Body President Don Altmann, purpose of the meeting is to look over last semester's student government and look forward to the present term.

Aimed primarily at an evaluation of student government, the session will also include an examination of the government structure. Plans will be made for the semester and a look taken at shortcomings thus far.

OK Project Carnival

At Monday night's Senate session, senatorial go-ahead was given to the Student Body Project to sponsor an all-student carnival as a fund-raising activity for the project. No date was set.

Considerable discussion was devoted to the Wednesday night dress-up. Informal sentiment among senators indicated a desire to continue the practice, but voted to leave the problem up to the administration because the Senete doesn't have jurisdiction on the matter.

Tuition Up $29 For Next School Year

Tuition will be increased $29 next year, according to an announcement made by college Business Manager H. C. Engelbrecht. Room rent was increased 25 cents a week with the exception of Centennial Hall, which was boosted 50 cents weekly.

The rates will be effective for the 1957-58 school year. No increase in board or other fees was passed.

Increased services, as well as rapidly rising cost of living, were reasons cited for the rate rise. Engelbrecht estimated the increase would bring in an estimated $23,000 for operating expenses next year.

"Although this will still fall short of our needs," said Engelbrecht, "we have tried to keep the increase as conservative as we possibly can."

Engalbracht

Nat Cost $876

Total net cost at Wartburg will be $876 next year as compared to $831 at present. This sum includes tuition, room and board as well as the $50 American Lutheran Church parish scholarship, which approximately 90 per cent of the Wartburg students receive.

The rise was authorized by the college Board of Regents at its November meeting, and the final figure was determined by the executive committee of the board last week.

A study of other colleges of comparable standing was used as a basis for the hike. A survey of privately-operated colleges in Iowa shows Wartburg to be among the lowest in cost.

Used For Additions

The increase will be used to pay for staff addition and expansion. Personnel to be added next year include another custodian, telephone operators for the new campus phone system, an alumni secretary and an additional housemother for the Centennial Hall wing.

Other items on the list include faculty expansion and a summer school subsidy for instructors attending vacation session to prepare themselves for specific course offerings.

Figures from a recent survey of colleges in this area show Wartburg to be one of the lowest in total cost. The Hello There!

TWENTY-FOUR of the twenty-nine new students, entering the Wertburg Family after the semester braak, express mixed emotions as they sit for a group shot.

29 Join, Rejoin College

A half-dozen states are represented as 29 new and returning students enrolled at Wartburg for the second semester.

Wisconsinites include Keith Folzmann, Waupun; Wayne Huehns, Sheboygan; and Jack Warher, Waupun.

From Iowa are Carl Anderson, Rockwell City; Dale Bauman, Allison; Laverna Franzen, Waverly; Ronald Drenkow, Melvin; Duane Hanna, Titonka; Phyllis Hanselmann, Clear Lake; and Larry Heid, Dike.

Others from the corn state include Gwendolyn Krahling, George; Gary Kruse, Allison; Richard McCreery, Gladbrook; James Nymann, Cedar Falls; Carolyn Seheer, Bristow; Eldon Schmidt, Manchester; Myra Schoenbeck, Monticello; Henry Waltmann, Cedar Falls; Roger Wrage, Gladbrook; Ron Steege, Westgate; Doug Schuldt, Sumner; Dale Saathoff and James Ruthenber, Waverly.

Also included on the list are George Bringman, Chicago, Ill.; Lorraine Henken, Albart, Kan.; Carol Nutten, Heela, S.D.; Valeria Mager, Redfield, S.D.; and John Wilken, Owatonna, Minn.

Selections Made For Castle Tales

Selections to be printed in Castle Tales, campus literary magazine, were chosen this week by an English Department committee, from a record number of entries.

A prize of $5 was awarded for first place in each of three divisions: short story; poetry; reviews and feature stories.

"Compositions of 72 authors were submitted to the magazine, scheduled to be distributed in April," stated senior John Polis, editor.

Presidents Here Today

Nine presidents of the Iowa Intercollegiate Athletic Conference member colleges are meeting on the Wartburg campus today. Convened at 10 this morning in the Fine Arts Center, the meeting is for the primary purpose of discussing the athletic situation.

The noon hour luncheon furnished by President G. T. Vander Lugt of Central College, was held in the small dining room of the cafeteria. Vander Lugt promised this luncheon to the other presidents if Central succeeded in obtaining the football championship.

Attending besides the host, are Presidents J. A. Fisher, Buena Vista; J. R. Chadwick, Iowa Wesleyan; J. W. Ylvisaker, Luther; M. G. Roberts, Parsons; William Kerstetter, Simpson; G. M. Couchman, University of Dubuque; E. E. Garbee, Upper Iowa. Because of President C. H. Becker's illness, H. C. Engelbrecht, assistant to the president, will represent Wartburg.

Look, Ma, No Hands

Cold weather stopped the clocks on campus last week.

The five-wire underground cable between Luther Hall and the Fine Arts Building recently broke because of frost. Temporarily a two-wire cable is being used. Consequently, the clocks in the Fine Arts Building are not working.

Who's Responsible For Planning Of Convocation? Faculty, Students Select Bi-Weekly Programs

By Joan Pape

If the question were ever asked, "At what one time does the entire faculty and student body meet together as a group?" the answer would probably be "Convocation." Everyone knows what convocation is. But who plans it and what are its purposes?

Technically, the planning of convocation programs is under the direction of the faculty-student committee on religious activities, but during the past few years a special convo committee, under the direction of the Rev. Edwin Schick, of the Christianity and Greek Departments, has developed. The rest of the committee includes two faculty members, Charles Dickson, Speech Department and C. Robert Larson, Music Department, plus the student body president and vice president, the TRUMPET editor and two women chosen from the student body at large. The dean of the faculty and the president of the college also serve as advisory members.

Tight Budget

This group meets just often enough to plan convo programs for about two months in advance. At these meetings all topics are considered as possibilities for convo programs, and any member of the committee can suggest a speaker whom he considers suitable.

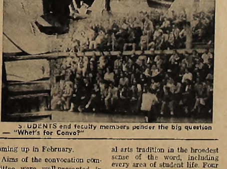
These suggestions are then discussed, and, if no one objects, those chosen are invited to speak. Though the committee operates on a budget which is limited by the administration, enough funds are provided to enable it often to get outstanding speakers.

Several highly interesting programs are planned for the future. One of these is an open forum type meeting in which all present will be invited to ask questions of the committee, with Dickson serving as moderator.

Scrolls Talk Soon

Another interesting convo will be the illustrated lecture on the Dead Sea Scrolls by Dr. Charles Titsch, professor of Old Testament, Princeton Theological Seminary. Science students will be especially interested in the atomic energy convocation coming up in February.

Aims of the convocation committee were well-presented in a statement by Pastor Schick; "The college administration considers convocation a very important part of academic life. Our intention is to schedule programs which are in the liberal arts tradition in the broadest sense of the word, including every area of student life. Four general fields are included: entertainment, worship, academic subjects and extra-curricular activities. Any suggestions from the student body for future programs will be appreciated."



STUDENTS end faculty members ponder the big question — "What's for Convo?"

Knight Debaters In Tournament; Midland College

Three teams of Wartburg debaters are in tournament at Midland College, Fremont, Neb., this weekend, according to Robert Smith, debate coach.

Sophomore Iris Heaney and junior Larry Achorn comprise one of the upper division teams, while the second consists of senior Douglas Soley and sophomore Wilbert Everts. Entered in the lower division is a team of freshmen, Dean Engbrecht and Eugene Moll.

During a previous tournament at River Falls College, River Falls, Wis., Miss Heaney was named to the all-tournament team, being rated third highest out of 106 people.

At the Midland meet, two of these will also enter Oratory, while two of the others will take part in Extemporaneous Speaking.

'Dress Right'.. Who Says?

"Dress right!"

That was the command that was issued to all incoming Wartburg students late last summer by the college administration.

"Dress right, dress up! Especially on Wednesday nights." That was the gist of the communique that each student received in the mail and, as in the military, he was expected to follow it.

Senate debate waxed hot last Monday evening as student government pondered the "to be or not to be" of an enforced dress-up night.

Leaders were concerned at the failure of ever-increasing numbers of students to follow this mandate. This, despite the fact that in two opinion surveys taken earlier in the year, the Student Body expressed itself as being in favor of the ruling.

Ordinarily this seige of apathy or marked change in opinion, whichever the case may be, would be the prime concern of the Senate. But the solons ruled Monday, and wisely so, that since the administration has arbitrarily laid down the ruling without consulting the Student Body or the student leaders, that as student leaders, they had no responsibility whatsoever in enforcing the "dress right" command.

So now it would seem that it is up to the administration to either put some teeth into its ruling or admit that it blundered.

So much for that side of the question. But what about the attitude of the individual student? Should or should he not be concerned about wearing better dress on Wednesday night? As far as the administration is concerned now, he has no need to fear recrimination, even if he walked through the line in a pair of orange polka-dot coveralls.

He should, however, be concerned with the implications upon himself. The impression Wartburg students make upon visitors to the campus and later on upon their employers and associates is dependent in a surprisingly large degree upon their appearance.

Wartburg's hyper-casual, if not downright blind, attitude toward dress makes a grim mockery of jests about the "Iowa Conference Look." Test it for yourself. Each spring campus males declare with virile vehemence that "this year's crop of freshman women make the upper-class women look like a collection of dowdy matrons." Several weeks later when the frosh coeds have learned to their surprise that dressing as they had previously thought they should at college just "isn't done" at Wartburg, they slip into the same dowdy category.

And the men are no better. Belabored excuses that "when we get out in life we'll dress better" doesn't hold enough water to grow an undernourished daisy. This is life! Here and now! And the prospective minister, teacher or professional man who is not used to more formal attire than a shirt and slacks, no matter how neat, is going to be at a disadvantage among his colleagues. Your future employer or future congregation is not going to be as tolerant as the administration.

So perhaps a self-imposed command to "dress right" would be in order.

Colonial? Isolation?

By Don Oberdorfer

The United States, arch trouble defender, now stands facing the world with a bone stuck in its throat. The bone refers to the questions dealing with the issues of colonialism and isolationism. There are those, definitely lacking foresight, who demand that we keep our political nose out of Europe's affairs and remain as an isolated power within ourselves.

Oberdorfer

This, some think, is an outcropping of the recent trouble which arose between our allies and the Egyptians, who are now controlling the ditch vital to all the world. Did we, by going against the voices of British and French authorities, do anything to break down the further development of colonialism in the world?

The answer must rest as a definite "yes." The United States, unwilling to commit itself on this item of colonialism, remained, up to this point, just as wishy-washy as any neutral country.

Even though we went against the major colonial powers, we dare not do anything which will permanently alienate us from these countries. Strategically, vitally and, to a certain extent, even economically, we are dependent upon those countries in any event of world crisis. Those among us who have not the foresight to see what importance these countries play, are those who are the narrow, short-sighted "dynamite kegs" of our times.

The United States has definitely lifted itself in the eyes of the rest of the free world with the action against colonialism. Even the Egyptians, with their blind despising of the Western world, were impressed with this action. Now, having gained some ground with those who are vital to the peace effort in the East, we must be careful not to beat down the friendship which we enjoy with England and France.

With this, we must realize that isolation from the rest of the world would never work. Having taken definite steps to assure ourselves of a position concerned with the welfare of our fellow nations, we can never back down and withdraw into ourselves. No nation can remain a vital fortress within itself while other nations possess the ability to strike death blows around the world, thus placing any isolated nation at its mercy.

Having entered into the vital aspects concerning the freedom of all other nations, we must step forward and take the lead, with all other nations, in making our world definitely a free and orderly place, wherein all men may live as free men.

FOOTNOTES TO FAITH

Here I Stand!

By The Rev. Walter G. Tillmanns

"Stand firm in your faith, be courageous, be strong." We do well to meditate upon these words which Paul addresses to Christians. The exhortation to "Stand" occurs quite often throughout Scriptures, and especially in the New Testament. There is reason for it. For even in those early days Christians often compromised their faith.

Tillmanns

Today we see many people who are taking no stand at all. They are not even sitting on the fence where everyone can see them. They are drifting along, being pushed and pulled, people without conviction and courage. Many of them are nice and decent, but somehow they have gotten the idea that it is not worthwhile or even fair to take a definite stand.

They have been conditioned by all kinds of reflexes to lean over backward, to see merit in everything which they read and hear, never to offend and never to take offence. They are the driftwood of our times, being carried on the swift streams of life, worthless flotsam, good for nothing. They do not apply the teachings of Christ to their lives for fear that they might collide with those who do not believe.

They go through the motions of "belonging" to a Church, of attending services, singing lustily the beautiful hymns of faith, but having a good snooze during the reading and preaching of the Word of Life. They are spiritually lazy, not thinking about their souls not the souls of their fellow men.

"Stand firm, be courageous, be strong." What a challenge! The pictures of Luther and numerous Christians throughout the ages appear before our eyes. Luther could say: "Here I stand!" knowing full well that he would be outlawed for life, that any one could kill him, thereby gaining merit in Church and State. Think of the cloud of witnesses in our own times. And here we are, refusing to take Christ seriously. Confess Christ, live Christ, stand firm!

Late Thursday evening your columnist was desperate (as usual) for column material and found this in the feature service of the Associated Collegiate Press:

He read the textbook;
He studied the notes;
He outlined both.
Then he summarized his outline.
He outlined his summary on 3x5 cards.
Then reduced the card outline to one single card.
Boiled the card down to one sentence;
Boiled the sentence down to a phrase;
Boiled the phrase down to a word.
Entered the exam.
Analyzed the question,
And then,
Forgot
The word.

Here's one typographical error that Coach Ax Bundgaard might wish were true. College Chips, student publication of Luther College (you remember that school from somewhere, don't you?), stated that Wartburg College was going to be hard to beat, since it has seven men over 6 foot 7 inches tall.

The move that Luther College will make next Tuesday, however, is most certainly no error. After the game, the Luther combo is going to hold a jam session for us in the college cafeteria. Don't get that gleam in your eye — you'll just be listening, not dancing.

Of course, Luther may make an error before the jam session, but that's entirely up to Bundgaard and the boys.

"Universities are full of knowledge; the freshmen bring a little in and the seniors take none away, and knowledge accumulates."

Here's a study of interesting contrasts between two institutions of higher learning — the University of Ontario and Augsburg. Here's the list of curfew hours for the women at Ontario: Freshmen - 1:30, Sophomores - 2:30, Juniors - 3:30. There were no hours listed for seniors. Maybe they don't have to come in at all. That's a.m., by the way, not p.m.

The contrast: Augsburg has recently voted whether or not they should have a Skill pool table in the recreation room.

'Outhustled' Knights Fall, 81-73; Face Tigers Tonight In Crucial Tilt

By Duane Schroeder
Sports Editor

FAIRFIELD — Striking hack with vengence Parsons College outhustled the Wartburg basketball squad in the second half of an Iowa Conference game here lasl night and drove on to an 81-73 triumph.

For Parsons it was the fifth win in six starts, the only loss having come at the hands of Wartburg last Saturday, 71-70. For Wartburg it was the first leg of o two-game road lrip as the Knights, now with a 3-2 conference mark, travel to nearby Mt. Pleasant to take on highly touted Iowa Wesleyan.

The Knights, who employed a floundering zone defense at the start of the second half, fell gradually behind the torrid shooting of Parsons and were unable to recover from a 13 point deficit. A brief flury in lhe closing minutes, propelled chiefly by the deadly jump shooting of Art Margheim, fell short hy nine points.

Parsons jumped off lo an early lead working the weave effectively and scoring 11 of their 16 goals in the first half under the hucket. John Adix, Gil Wessel and Margheim pulled the Knights hack into the ball game with long shots from out-front and from the corners.

Midway through the first half the Knights shot into the lead by six points only to lose it ot half time and the teams went into the locker rooms in a 36-36 deadlock.

Arnie Ditch, Parson's forward, droped in 18 points with 10 of them coming from the charity line in 11 attempts. Margheim led both teams in the scoring column with 19 markers on eight field goals and three free throws.

Knight grapplers invade Augustana mats at 2:30 p.m. today al Rock Island, Ill., seeking their third win of the season alter downing Stevens Point 19-10 Thursday and defeating the Luther Norsemen 17-9, Jan. 12, in lhe season opener.

Point's Eugene Sorenson was handed his first defeat in the campaign by Wartburg's Arnie Brandt in the 177-pound division. Brandt threw Sorenson with 7:37 left in the match. Central State College, Stevens Point, Wis., has a 4-2 record this season following their setback by the Knight grapplers.

Bruce Brye obtained the only pin in the Wartburg-Luther contest as he threw Bruce Hartman of the Norsemen in the heavyweight division. Coach Norm Johansen said the Knight matmen gave a good performance in the match, better than what he had expected.

Highly touted Don Gibbs and his Iowo Wesleyan cohorts face the Knights tonight at Mt. Pleasant in one of the most important Iowa Conference gomes of the season.

Gibbs, presently leading the conference in scoring and credited with 49 markers against Buena Vista lasl week, has helped his Iowa Wesleyan teammates overpower four opponents in conference play thus far this season, losing once lo Upper Iowa. The 6'7" center has been averaging 32.6 points per conference game this season.

Spencer Likes Gibbs

Wesleyan coach Jack Spencer lauded Gibbs as "A real hard worker. He has a wonderful eye, and since he developed a turn-around jump shot, he doesn't have to rely so heavily on his hook shot."

Bob Gunther, a guard who carried the scoring load for Wesleyan last year, is back, giving balance to a potent Tiger ball club.

Knights return to their home court Tuesday night when they host Luther, which lhus far has posted an unimpressive one and four record.

Height Hampers Luther

Coach Ham Petersen has been hampered this season with lack of height and has been throwing the burden on two diminutive guards, Roger Schroeder and Chuck Barkee.

Petersen could probably point to inexperience as one of the reasons for the spasmodic play of the Norse this season. In several ball games Luther trailed by only one or two points, only lo hit a slump, and in the Parsons game the Vikings were able to hit only three field goals in the final period.

Buena Vista is the only Iowa Conference team to fall to the Norse.

What if this were 1987?

• Well, who knows what the future will bring? No one, of course. Yet, unquestionahly the sensible thing to do is to plan ahead today for those important tomorrows . . . tomorrows that will mean the difference between happiness or regrets for you.

Let's face it! An unplanned future would be tragic whether you were alive or not. If you died within those 30 years, you'd force your loved ones to find another source of income. If you lived, you'd be fifty years old with much less time then to save for retirement — even if you were still insurable.

Today, hundreds of students are planning their future with the help of LUTHERAN BROTHERHOOD. And they're getting o head-start because of lower premiums and greater benefits. Join them today . . . write

No More Two-Year Diplomas

Granting of pre-professional certificates for two-year elementary teachers and diplomas for two-year business students will be discontinued by Wartburg College as of August, 1958, according to Dr. J. O. Chellevold, dean of faculty.

The Iowa State Board of Public Instruction expects to have introduced in Iowa by 1958 a four-year certificate to teach in elementary grades. The pre-professional two-year elementary certificate will not be granted by the state after that time.

Action by the college will not effect the students now registered under the two-year teaching program, but it will affect those who had planned to register for this course the coming fall.

The new program issued by the State Department of Public Instruction is as follows:

1. Designate Aug. 31, 1958, as the cancellation date of separately approved two-year programs of teacher education.

2. Designate Aug. 31, 1958, as the date after which only a two-year portion of a planned four-year program of teacher for approval. (The net effect education would be considered would be that the Professional Commitment Certificate, valid for one-year with renewable terms, would then be the only certificate available to new teachers without degrees.)

3. Designate Aug. 31, 1960, as the cancellation date for approved two-year portions of four-year programs of teacher education. (The final effect would then be that, after Aug. 31, 1960, all beginning teachers would be required to have completed an approved four-year program of teacher education.)

The two-year business course offered by Wartburg College will remain as it is, but no certificates will be granted.

Viennese To Feature 3 Works

By Marsha Arhart

"The finest in chamber music" — That's what's in store for Wartburg Artist Series patrons tomorrow night as the Vienna Octet makes an appearence in Knights Gymnasium at 8.

The eight members of the Octet, all first desk men of the Vienna Philharmonic, have made tours all over Europe and participated in the music festivals of Edinburgh, Salzburg and others.

The Octet, composed of graduates from the Vienna Academy of Music, is currently on its first American tour. Among the eight musicians is the first concert master of the Vienna Philharmonic, Professor Willi Boskowsky.

The Vienna Octet will open its Waverly concert with Michael Haydn's "Divertimento in G Major for String Quintet." They will also perform Brahms' "Clarinet Quintet in B Minor, Opus 115."

In its final selection, the Octet will present Mozart's "Divertimento No. 10 in F Major, K. 247." In common with several other chamber music works by Mozart, this work was written at the commission of Countess Antonia Lodron, a discriminating patron of Salzburg.

Next number on the Wartburg Artist Series program will be the featured presentation of Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Tour Orchestra Friday, Feb. 15. Final number on the 1956-57 series will be a piano recital by David Bar-Illan, Israeli pianist, Feb. 27.

BACK IN familiar pose after several weeks of confinement to his bed, President C. H. Becker dictates a few letters to his secretary Jeanette Prieba from the study of the President's Residence.

Religious-Medical Meet Scheduled For Campus, August 28 And 29

Plans are being made for a conference on religion and medicine, to be held on the Wartburg campus this summer during Aug. 28 and 29.

Theme for the conference, which will be sponsored by the college and the Rohlf Memorial Clinic of Waverly, will be "The Healing Team."

Purpose of this conference, which is under the chairmanship of the Rev. Karl Schmidt, acting head of Wartburg's Christianity Department, is "to help create greater understanding and cooperation between pastors and doctors and a greater appreciation of the function which each performs as a member of the healing team."

Among the leading medical and religious personalities from throughout the country who will appear on the program are Dr. Russell L. Dicks, professor of pastoral care of Duke University, and Dr. William Hulme, professor of pastoral counseling at Wartburg Seminary.

An invitation is being extended to pastors, teachers, nurses, doctors, students and to anyone interested to attend this conference, which will highlight the programs appearing on campus during the coming summer.

G. B. Strickler, College Chaplain, For Convo Tues.

Featured on the Convocation program for next week is Dr. Gerald B. Strickler, Chairman of the Christianity Department and college chaplain of Midland College, Fremont, Neb.

Strickler, a native of Pennsylvania, attended Gettysburg College and Seminary of Gettysburg, Pa., and recently received a doctor's degree in sacred theology from Temple University, Philadelphia.

The Rev. Harold Zietlow, Gilman, Ill., will address the convocation on Existentialism. An American Lutheran Church minister, Pastor Zietlow has only his dissertation to complete for his Ph.D. in philosophy of religion from the University of Chicago.
